

BIPOC Micro-Grant Evaluation Report

Rodale Institute requires that all grantees provide Rodale Institute with an evaluation report of the project or activities for which a grant was received. This report should be submitted as soon as possible after the conclusion of a time-limited program, or if it is an ongoing project, no later than one year from the date of the grant. Not submitting a timely evaluation report may disqualify an individual or organization from consideration for future grants until the past-due report is completed.
